Change of List Pricing of Gas Welding Products

The prices on these products have not been reviewed for some time and costs have increased considerably during that period, particularly the price of copper. Copper constitutes approximately 50% of the product on the cut lengths to which we have not traditionally applied a surcharge. We therefore need to increase list prices to reflect current costs. The table below shows the list prices that will apply from 1st November.

Please note that we have also replaced Aluminium Flux with Aluminium Flux No 36. This new flux is considered superior and is suitable for both welding and brazing of aluminium.
